Teaching Experience: more than 20 years

Through my experience teaching for more than 20 years, I have learned to engage and empower my students to be motivated learners by exploring each of their strengths and weaknesses. I simplify complex math concepts and the steps involved to better help my students understand and remember them, and from this, they have developed a stronger interest and confidence in the subject, resulting in significant improvement in their grades. Moreover, with our comprehensive in-house worksheets and customised teaching at Sakamoto, we make academic content relevant, helping our students understand and apply it in their work.
